

What roles have slavery and dispossession played in Rutgers history?

Historical Walking Tours of College Avenue Campus Fall 2017

Learn about Rutgers' deep and storied past with current Rutgers students as your guides

The Scarlet and Black Project is a historical exploration of the experiences of two disenfranchised populations, African Americans and Native Americans, at Rutgers University. Its initial work began with Scarlet and Black, Volume 1: Slavery and Dispossession in Rutgers History, published in 2016, which traced the university's early history, uncovering how the university benefited from the slave economy and how Rutgers came to own the land it inhabits. To share that research with a wider audience, the project now introduces these historical walking tours, open to members of the public and communities across Rutgers.

To learn more about the project, visit: scarletandblack.rutgers.edu.

Tours will be held on the following dates; all tours depart from outside Old Queens at Will's Way (facing Voorhees Mall)

Friday, October 20
12pm & 3pm

Saturday, October 21
9:30am & 1pm

Thursday, October 26
12:15-3pm

Friday, October 27
9:30am & 2pm

Thursday, November 9
10am & 3pm

Friday, November 10
9:30am & 2pm

To register for one of the tours, contact the tour coordinator, Dr. Kristin O'Brassill-Kulfan (kristin.obrassillkulfan@rutgers.edu).

Painted By

Rutgers College