Violence in American History and Memory

Interpreting American History Graduate Workshop and Lecture Series

SCARS OF THE PAST
VIOLENCE IN AMERICAN HISTORY AND MEMORY

THE UPROOTING
TRANSGATIONAL VIOLENCE AND THE POLITICS OF DISPLACEMENT IN MODERN US IMMIGRATION HISTORY

Thursday, December 7, 2017
Graduate Workshop/Luncheon: 1:15 – 2:15
LUNCH PROVIDED

Public Lecture: 4:30 p.m.
All events held in 301 Van Dyck Hall, College Avenue Campus

LECTURER

Paul A. Kramer, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of History, Vanderbilt University

Paul A. Kramer is a historian of modern U.S. history, transnational imperialism, American social thought, and the politics of inequality. An award-winning author, Kramer is also a frequent contributor to the New Yorker and Slate. His current book projects include a methodological book transnationalizing U.S. history in addition to a manuscript probing the intersections of U.S. immigrant policy and foreign relations.

RUTGERS

Graduate Students interested in attending the afternoon luncheon/workshop must RSVP by Friday, December 1 by emailing Jerrad Pacatte (jpp158@history.rutgers.edu).