Blazing Trails in the Study of Gender and Race
Two Rutgers History PhDs Celebrate Revolutionary Rutgers

Alice Kessler-Harris
“The Next Revolution”

Khalil Gibran Muhammed
“A Revolution of Consciousness: Bearing Witness to the Emergence of Carceral Studies among U.S. Historians”

Thursday, November 10, 2016
2:00 to 4:00
Pane Room, Alexander Library

Alice Kessler-Harris, Columbia University, a founder of the field of women and gender history as a Professor in the Rutgers History department, will speak about her personal, intellectual and institutional trajectory.

Khalil Gibran Muhammed, Harvard University, a major public intellectual in the domain of African American History, will speak about his personal, intellectual and institutional trajectory in bringing visibility to African American History.

A reception will follow.